DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Proprietors.

WEDNESDAY EVE. OCTOBER 13, 1886

LANCASTER voted in favor of local option last Saturday by about 100 majority.

The ten-dollar silver certificates of the new series have already been counterfeited.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania are becoming alarmed at the outlook, and have called upon Blaine for a little magnatism.

WILLIS' defeat in the Louisville district for the Democratic nomination for Congress was overwhelming, but the result pointed heroically, and pledges Curtis a warm support. All honor to Willis!

As Circuit Judge, George M. Thomas cost the tax-payers of this district $3,176 in six years, all by his failure to attend to his duties. Will the tax-payers vote to put such a man in office again? We think not. Thomas has shown that he doesn't care for their interests.

The news from Bath is encouraging. The Democrats of that county are united and are going to poll a big vote the 2nd of next month. Judge Wall had a large crowd at Owingsville Monday, and spoke at Olympia that night. Let the good work continue. Let every Democrat who wants to see the district redeemed next month remember that the full vote must be polled for the nominees. Do your duty from now on, and a glorious victory in November will reward your efforts.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK EXCEEDINGLY BRIGHT.

A recent special from Washington, D. C., to the Cincinnati Times-Star—a Republic paper—speaks in the following pointed language of the business outlook. It will repay a careful perusal: "There seems to be a general belief that there is a season of prosperity just ahead. All the returns that come in to the Treasury and other Government departments seem to indicate it. Not only do the reports of the condition of the national banks, mentioned in this correspondence a few days ago, indicate it, but reports which show the condition of other branches of business. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has made up a statement showing the receipts of the internal revenue bureau for the past year. It indicates a very healthy growth of the business which pays the revenue. The receipts of the bureau, which are a pretty good barometer of the general condition of business, show a marked increase over the corresponding time last year. The reports received in the Agricultural Department show that the crops are going to be good in nearly every section of the country. There is reason to believe the cotton crop is going to be quite past that of last year, and that the prices will be much better than they have been for several years. The reports of the banks in nearly every direction show that the deposits are much larger now than they were a year ago, and that the loans and discounts have greatly increased, showing a greater activity in business. Reports which reach here from the great trade centers show business exceedingly prosperous, and the merchants everywhere predict better times than they have had for a long time. The iron manufacturers seem to be about the busiest in the country. They find business very satisfactory, and predict that they are going to have all they can do. The demand for American productions abroad seems to be gradually increasing, and unless all signs fail, there are better times ahead all around."

BIG HATS AND LONG HAIR.

HOW THE COWBOYS USED TO MAKE THEIR OWN HATS.

Rawhide Molded in the Ground and Dried in the Sun—Big Rimmed Fur Hats that Have Taken the Old Rawhide's Place.

"Take," says a cowboy of the plains, "for instance, the cowboy's big rimmed hat. The fact about it is that it has been in use for many generations, and after generations is enough to indicate that use, not vanity, dictated its origin. Until recent years, when the importance of these hats was recognized by hat manufacturers and wool, felt and fur were used in the making of them, we made our own hats. A hole as near the top as the shape and size of our heads as we could make it, was dug in the ground. A large circular piece of rawhide, wet, soft and pliable, was spread over the hole. With a bunch of grass or baleen, we made a sort of a ring, and tied it down into the hole until it assumed its size and shape. The surrounding circle of hide, which was to be the rim, was kept flat on the ground by constant patting of the hands until it was dry.

With the hat thus molded it was left until it was well dried by the sun. Then it was taken to a place where smoke and heat scorched it so that it was perfectly waterproof. Then it was trimmed with strings and straps and was ready for use, and that use is now known as the cowboy's special protection. The cowboy quickly spreads his fire back on the burned ground before it has a chance to gain headway; often to turn wild cattle and horses in the direction we want them to go. When the sun is so scorching hot that it burns the skin, part of the reason for this great heat is much cooler than a straw hat. When the wind is blowing the sand like hot shot in our faces we would suffer greatly but for the protection afforded our eyes by the big-brimmed hat. When the mud is flying about our faces, the cowboy's hat protects the terrible halteriors of the plains are pelting upon us; these hats are the best friends we have. We wear leather bands on all our hats, because cotton, woolen, silk won't wear and won't keep the hats on."

Nowadays our hats are made in the east, and made of the best fur of the best water animals. We can wash them or soak them in water for that matter, after they have been exposed to all kinds of weather, and they will not shrink as if they had been out of the factory. The Stetson hat is the most commonly used in the west. They cost from $8 to $30. If made to order, they cost a great deal more. I have seen hats that cost $500. But Bill Billingsley, of the Stetson, has presented to him people that he is safe and safely across the great plains in times of danger from hostile Indians and Mormons. These fur hats have taken the place of the old horse hair rawhide hats, as they answer every purpose.

"As to our long hair, there are good reasons why we wear it. Our business is out doors, rain or shine and in many changes of climate, and we have found from experience that the hair is a great protection to the eyes, keeping them dry. Old miners and prospectors know this well. Hunters, scouts, trappers and guides let their hair grow as a rule. Those who have been prejudiced against it have suffered the consequences of some eyes pain in the head, and long hair in the ears. A physician's report of exposure without the protection of long hair is loss of hearing in one ear, caused by one or the other of the ears being exposed more when the plainer man is lying on the ground. Hence the hemispherical shape of our ears are of the greatest importance to a man, hunter or herdsman. When we see an object at a distance we want to know whether it is a cloud burst coming upon us, a prairie fire, an enemy in the night, or what it is. The hair is not at the top of the head, but it becomes, if our eyes are good. It won't do for them to be weak and watery, and, having found that the growth and wearing of long hair not only preserves, but strengthens our sight, and preserves our eyes from getting wet, we have hair, and, probably, we want to have some white men whose interests call them to live among the Indians, and it is a fact that by letting their hair grow long they gain favor with the people they live among, and get along much better."—New York Standard.

Fatal Railroad Accident.

East Liverpool, O., Oct. 13.—At 12:15 o'clock this morning, an eastbound freight train on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad ran through an open switch and into a shifting engine, standing on the siding at this station. W. H. Webster, brakeman, was instantly killed, and Fireman Pack was fatally injured. Several other members of both crews were seriously injured. The engines and a number of cars were demolished, causing a loss to the railroad of over $25,000. The killed and injured are residents of Wellsville, O.

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

WINCHESTER, O., Oct. 14.—Charles Tracy, a construction hand, working on the Cincinnati & Eastern railway, while coming in from Peebles to this city on a hand-car ran over a switch and derailed the track by some unknown train-wrecker. Tracy was seriously hurt, having his foot mashed, and received other injuries of a serious nature. It is thought the obstruction was placed on the track for the purpose of wrecking the eastbound train for Portsmouth. Further trouble is anticipated.

Great Fire at New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Mrs. General Grant has received from Charles L. Webster & Co., the publishers of the General's Memoirs, a check for $10,000, being the second payment on account of the cost of the work. The check was for $10,000. Mr. Webster said that probably within the next few months Mrs. Grant would receive $100,000 more. The check paid in represents the collections on the book up to date. Mr. Webster thinks Mrs. Grant will realize $300,000 on the book.

FAIRFAX, D. C., Oct. 13.—Frosts during the past few days have swept over the greater part of McIntosh county in the Missouri valley, destroying hay, grain, houses and barns and leaving scores of settlers destitute, with nothing to fall back on but the long winter. It is estimated that $150,000 worth of property has been destroyed in three or four river counties, generally on large farms. In the high winds the ordinary fire breaks have not been effective, and the country is without protection, since the settlers have not had time to build houses and barns.

ESCAPING FROM SIBERIA.

M. DE GAIFF, ALIAS JABLONSKI, THE Nihilist, No Longer a Prisoner.

The Conspirator Who Planned the Murder of Lieutenant Colonel Sudetsk, Turned to Geneva, Where He is Safe From Extradtion—Foreign News.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—A St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs that he learns, despite of official secrecy, that the police have received a full confirmation from Siberia of the reported escape of M. De Gaiff, the famous Nihilist conspirator, who planned and assisted in the murder of Lieut. Col. Sudetsk, the chief of police, and one of his staff, nearly three years ago. The police have traced M. De Gaiff to Geneva, where he has turned his back to the St. Petersburg government and extradtion him. Since June at least twenty Siberian prisoners have escaped, including two cavalry officers and several students, some of them escaping by way of Cambodia.

The precautions which are observed throughout Siberia are such that the government has boasted that the country could not have been affected without conspiracy with the prison officials. So great a commotion has been caused by these repeated jail deliveries that a special commission has been sent to Siberia to inquire into the causes and to examine the entire system of prison government. A number of high officials, under whose charge the escaped prisoners were, have been suspended and some officials who were particularly responsible have been arrested and thrown into prison.

M. De Gaiff, alias Jablonski, the Nihilist whose escape is related above, had an eventful and checkered career. He had been arrested with Nihilists for many years, but did not remain in prison long, and was soon released as the murderer of Gen. Strakoroff, at Odessa.
